7. Review of Academics and Administrative Work During Pandemic.

During the period from April 2020, to June 2021 (during the pandemic), the Technocrats Institute of Technology & Science established an e-Lecture facility on its website, where courses are regularly updated and made available. During the period of lockdown, the teaching staff attended webinars, FDPs, and workshops on e-content development. They also conducted their own self-evaluation and assessment of the many online teaching paradigms available in order to determine which would be suitable for delivering content to students effectively online. All UG and PG admissions during the pandemic were done online, and help stations were established to answer student questions 24 hours a day, seven days a week. The committee was pleased with the well-done work. The committee appreciated the good work done by faculty members during the pandemic. The Director announced that, in addition to classroom teaching, emphasis will be placed on getting students involved in research through practical training, small projects, survey-based studies, career fair organization, student campus interviews, and athletics, all of which will help to revive campus life as things get back to normal.
